

Sydney Metro is Australia's biggest public transport project.

Services start in 2019 in the city's North West with a train every four minutes in the peak. Metro rail will be extended into the CBD and beyond to Bankstown in 2024. There will be new CBD metro railway stations underground at Martin Place, Pitt Street and Barangaroo and new metro platforms under Central.

In 2024, Sydney will have 31 metro railway stations and a 66 km standalone metro railway system – the biggest urban rail project in Australian history. There will be ultimate capacity for a metro train every two minutes in each direction under the Sydney city centre.

The upgrade of the T3 Bankstown Line to metro standards received planning approval on 19 December 2019.

Sydney Metro has started early design and investigation work between Marrickville and Bankstown as part of the Southwest metro project.

Early work investigations – Southwest metro

From February to April 2019, early investigation work will commence along the T3 Bankstown line between Campsie and Bankstown, weather and site conditions permitting. Work will include:

- Undertaking rail corridor boundary surveys between Campsie Station and Marion Street rail bridge in Bankstown

Standard work hours

This work will be carried out during standard construction hours which are Monday to Friday, 7am–6pm and Saturday, 8am–6pm.

What to expect

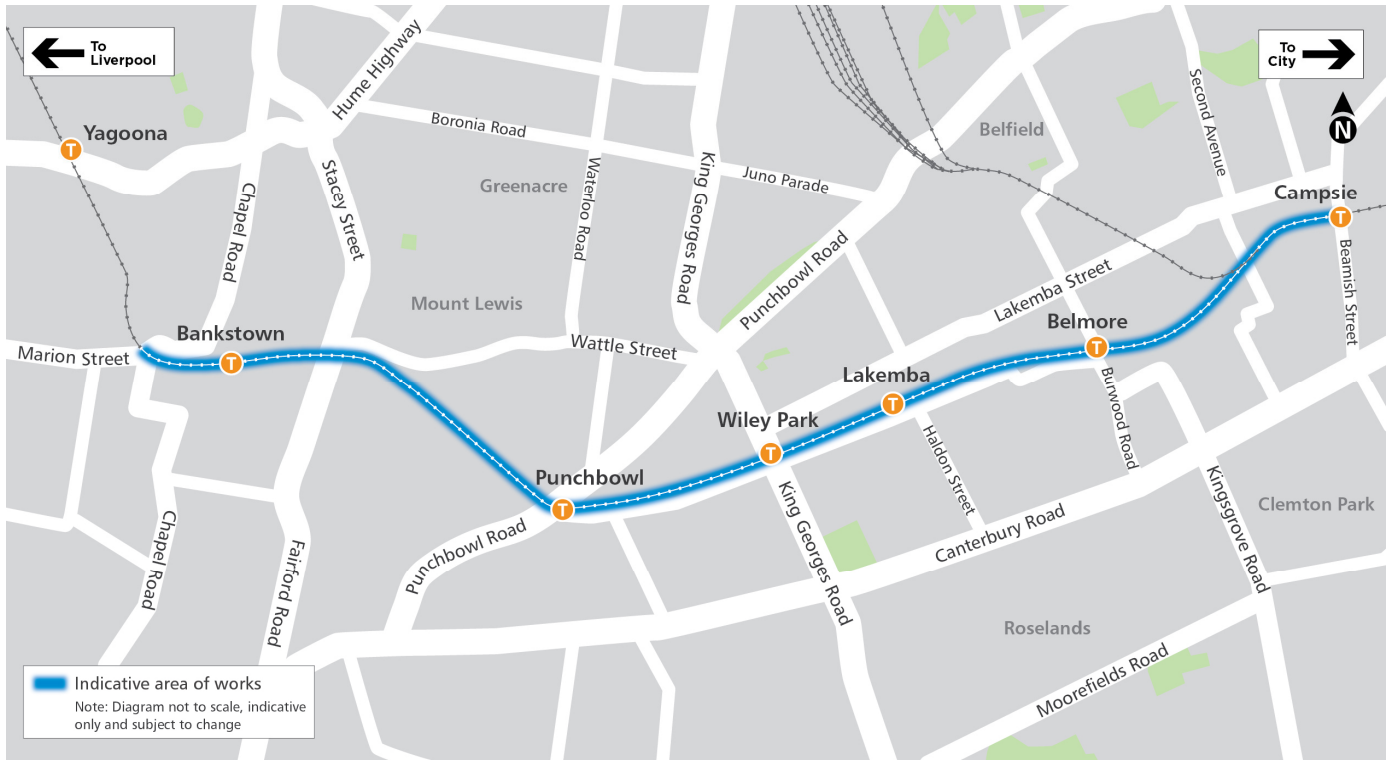

- Equipment will include hand held surveying equipment
- Access to the rail corridor will be via existing rail corridor gates along the alignment
- Access to buildings and driveways will be maintained at all times

Keeping you informed

Properties close to the rail corridor will receive notifications when work is scheduled to occur. Sydney Trains will deliver notifications for work done during scheduled rail maintenance periods and Sydney Metro will keep you informed of all other work.
