

Sydney Metro is Australia's biggest public transport project.

Services started in May 2019 in the city's North West with a train every four minutes in the peak. Metro rail will be extended into the CBD and beyond to Bankstown in 2024. There will be new CBD metro railway stations underground at Martin Place, Pitt Street and Barangaroo and new metro platforms under Central.

In 2024, Sydney will have 31 metro railway stations and a 66 km standalone metro railway system – the biggest urban rail project in Australian history. There will be ultimate capacity for a metro train every two minutes in each direction under the Sydney city centre.

Bankstown Line metro upgrade

Throughout June, early work will continue along the Bankstown line between Campsie and Bankstown stations (weather and site conditions permitting).

Out-of-hours work – Punchbowl

Due to the nature of some activities and for the safety of workers, some work will occur outside standard construction hours when trains are not running.

From 8am to 6pm Saturday 22 June and 8am to 6pm Sunday 23 June geotechnical investigations including minor drilling work will take place adjacent to Punchbowl station (see map overleaf).

What to expect

- Access to the station will be maintained at all times
- Pedestrian signage and barriers will be in place for the safety of workers and the community
- Equipment such as hand held tools and a drill rig will be used.

Some of this work may be noisy, however we will take every possible step to minimise noise such as switching off equipment when not in use and installing non-tonal reversing beepers on vehicles.

Keeping you informed

Properties close to the rail corridor will receive notifications when work is scheduled to occur. Sydney Trains will deliver notifications for work done during scheduled rail maintenance periods and Sydney Metro will keep you informed of all other work. If you'd prefer to receive updates by email, please contact us using the details below.

Thank you for your cooperation while we complete this essential work.
