

NOTIFICATION – WERRINGTON | 25 JUNE 2019

Sydney Metro is Australia's largest public transport project

Sydney Metro Greater West is the new metro railway line which will service Greater Western Sydney and the new Western Sydney International (Nancy-Bird Walton) Airport.

The new railway will include stations at the airport, Western Sydney Aerotropolis, and St Marys – where customers can connect with the rest of Sydney's existing suburban rail network.

World-class metro rail means better access to more places, faster travel times, less congestion on roads and a reduced reliance on cars.

Metro services have started in the city's North West between Rouse Hill and Chatswood and will be extended into the Sydney CBD and beyond to Bankstown in 2024. Detailed investigations are also taking place for Sydney Metro West, which will link the CBDs of Parramatta and Sydney and communities along the way in around 20 minutes.

Out-of-hours noise and vibration monitoring – Werrington

Noise and vibration monitoring work is taking place on Victoria Street, adjacent the rail corridor in Werrington to assist with early planning and design work for Sydney Metro Greater West.

This monitoring is required to determine rail movements and background noise levels in this area to inform preliminary environmental planning studies. Noise monitoring equipment does not record conversations or other sounds; they simply log the frequency, duration, and intensity of noise in the area.

This work will take place out-of-hours over two nights on Tuesday, 2 July and Wednesday, 3 July 2019 between 9pm to 3am and 4am to 9am respectively, on the southern side of Victoria Road (between Burton and William Streets) in Werrington.

Work will involve

- Establishing a temporary monitoring area, outside of the rail corridor
- A small team around the work area using small noise and vibration equipment and a camera (facing towards the rail corridor)
- Worker vehicles parked near the work area.

What to expect

Access to properties and pedestrian walkways will be maintained.

The noise impact from these activities is expected to be minimal.

Thank you for your cooperation while we complete this essential work.
