

Sydney Metro is Australia's biggest public transport project.

Services started in May 2019 in the city's North West with a train every four minutes in the peak. Metro rail will be extended into the CBD and beyond to Bankstown in 2024. There will be new CBD metro railway stations underground at Martin Place, Pitt Street and Barangaroo and new metro platforms under Central.

In 2024, Sydney will have 31 metro railway stations and a 66 km standalone metro railway system – the biggest urban rail project in Australian history. There will be ultimate capacity for a metro train every two minutes in each direction under the Sydney city centre.

Bankstown Line metro upgrade

Throughout August, early work will continue along the Bankstown line between Sydenham and Campsie stations (weather and site conditions permitting).

Between Monday 19 August and Friday 23 August work will include underground service investigation works (including boreholes) on Melford Street, Hurlstone Park between Hutton Street and Canberra Street. Work will occur along the footpath, grass strip and road reserve.

Service investigation activities will take place during standard construction hours from 7am to 6pm.

What to expect

- Intermittent single lane closure on Melford Street between Hutton Street and Canberra Street from Monday 19 August to Friday 23 August
- Traffic control and pedestrian directional signage will be in place for the safety of workers and the community
- Increase in light traffic movements around the local area
- Equipment such as hand held tools, an excavator, a non-destructive vacuum excavator truck, concrete saw, and compaction equipment will be in use.

Access to buildings and driveways will be maintained at all times. Some of this work may be noisy, however we will take every possible step to minimise noise such as switching off equipment when not in use and installing non-tonal reversing beepers on vehicles.
