

Project update

May 2022

Sydney Metro is Australia's biggest public transport project

Services started in May 2019 in the city's North West with a train every four minutes in the peak. Metro rail will be extended into the CBD and beyond to Bankstown in 2024. There will be new CBD metro railway stations at Martin Place, Pitt Street and Barangaroo and new metro platforms at Central.

In 2024, Sydney will have 31 metro railway stations and a 66 kilometre standalone metro railway system. There will be ultimate capacity for a metro train every two minutes in each direction under the Sydney city centre.

Since January 2021, CPB Contractors have been delivering Sydney Metro's Pitt Street Station in the Sydney CBD.

Start of construction – Pitt Street South over station development (OSD)

Oxford Properties and Investa, with CPB Contractors as design and construction contractor, will commence construction of the 234 build-to-rent residential building over the metro station's south entrance.

From Friday 27 May 2022, construction will commence to build the Pitt Street South over station development (OSD).

Construction activities will include:

- steel fixing, formwork and concrete pours to construct the structure of the building
- installing building hoists, scaffolding and screens
- material deliveries via trucks parked in Bathurst Street and Pitt Street work zones. A tower crane will lift materials from vehicles parked in the work zones, into the site
- concrete pumping into the site via concrete trucks/agitators parked in Bathurst Street and Pitt Street work zones. A concrete pump, concrete vibrator and concrete helicopter will be used during this work
- relocating the tower crane
- installing building façade panels
- installing utility services and internal fit out within the building.
